Billing Overview

Last updated : 2024-11-07 16:25:43

Free Quota

After activating the Face Fusion service for the first time, the following interfaces will offer a free call quota for you to test and experience. The free call quota will be delivered in the form of a free resource pack and will be used for deduction first in respect of billing and settlement.

You can check the consumption status of the free resource pack in the Face Fusion Console. After the free resource pack is consumed, if you have purchased a call volume resource pack, it will then consume the paid resource pack. If you have not purchased a resource pack or the resource pack is exhausted or expired, it will automatically switch to pay-as-you-go settlement. Tencent Cloud may adjust or cancel the free call quota after notifying you 30 days in advance based on product operation conditions.

Overdue Payment

Last updated : 2024-11-07 16:25:43

On the 1st to 3rd of each month, the total number of API calls from the previous month is calculated for settlement and the corresponding bill is generated. The system automatically deducts fees for settlement. If your account balance is negative after deduction, the face fusion product will stop service in 24 hours. Service will resume once the account balance is positive. In the case of service suspension, even if you have remaining prepaid package, resource package deduction will be paused. Once the balance is topped up to positive, the system will automatically resume resource package deduction.

To avoid affecting your normal business operations, top up your account in the Tencent Cloud console Billing Center as soon as you receive an overdue payment notification.
